Clifton Forge, Va., April 30.—The sixth annual meeting of the Virginia Federation of Women's Club came to a close here this afternoon, and to-night the delegates and visitors, as well as a large number of Clifton Forge people, were guests at a reception given by Mrs. B. C. Goodwin in her home on Alleghany Street, It was the most brilliant social function that has taken place in Clifton Forge in a long time.

To the great surprise of those attending the federation no change was made in the office of president, held by Mrs. M. M. Caldwell, of Roanoke, and along with the president the federation retained all of its officers except the secretary, who was ineligible, and Mrs. E. A. Snead, of this city, was elected to that office.

At the noon hour Mrs. Caldwell turned over the meeting to the educational committee, composed of Miss Lucy Davis, Mrs. J. C. Kyle and Miss Anna Jones, all of Lynchburg, Mrs. Kyle presided, and Miss Davis reported the work of a committee for the establishment of a co-ordinate college for women at the University of Virginia, Miss Jones, chairman of the Industrial educational committee, reported on the work of rural schools fairs.
